Research Interests

Analytics, optimization, mathematical programming, and theoretical computer science, with focus on the application of techniques in data science, machine learning, mixed integer linear programming, combinatorial optimization, and algorithms design to operations research problems.

Employment

- University of Connecticut Storrs, CT
Assistant Professor since August 2019
Currently working as an Assistant Professor at the Department of Operations and Information Management (OPIM) at the University of Connecticut.
- IBM Research Brazil São Paulo, Brazil
Research Staff Member January 2012–August 2019
Research Staff Member at the Natural Resources Optimization Group at IBM Research, with focus on the investigation of new methodologies and solution techniques based on data science, mathematical programming and algorithms design for applied operations research problems in several areas (e.g., natural resources, transportation, agriculture).
- Zuse Institute Berlin Berlin, Germany
Visiting Researcher April 2007–October 2011
Investigation and implementation of advanced solution techniques based on mixed-integer linear programming for the Vehicle Positioning Problem. Branch-and-price algorithms, as well as new techniques, were developed in order to solve the problem, as well as its online and robust extensions. With the developed techniques, previously intractable instances of the problem (e.g., integrated weakly operational planning for transportation companies employing up to 200 vehicles) can now be solved within 30 minutes in a standard desktop computer.
- University of São Paulo São Paulo, Brazil
Coach for programming competitions 2002–2007
Worked as coach in the Institute of Mathematics and Statistics at the University of São Paulo for the Brazilian Olympiads in Informatics (OBI) from 2002 until 2006 and for the ACM International Collegiate Programming Contest (ICPC) from 2006 until 2007; over 10 students won medals at OBI and one of the 3 teams competing representing the University of São Paulo obtained a gold medal on the ICPC 2006 South American Regional and the 26th position at the ICPC 2007 World Finals.
